STIPULATION AND ORDER EXTENDING TIME TO CONCLUDE
MEDIATION, NUNC PRO TUNC FEBRUARY 15, 2020

On October 18, 2019, in each of the above-referenced adversary proceedings (the “Adversary Proceedings”), this Court entered the Stipulation and Order Referring Adversary Proceedings to Mediation and Appointing Mediator (collectively, the “Mediation Referral Order”)<sup>1</sup>. Under the terms of the Mediation Referral Order: (i) Deborah A. Reperowitz, Esq., counsel to the law firm of Stradley Ronon Stevens & Young, LLP, was selected by the Parties to serve as mediator in these Adversary Proceedings (the “Mediator”); (ii) the mediation was scheduled to conclude not more than 120 days from the date of entry of the Mediation Referral Order (which computes to February 15, 2020), unless extended by mutual consent of the Parties and the Mediator or by order of the Court; and (iii) the Case Management Deadlines would be held in abeyance without further order or notice pending the completion of the mediation.

Pursuant to the terms of the Mediation Referral Order, the mediation was scheduled to conclude by February 15, 2020. The Parties have exchanged mediation position statements and various documents and materials, but the mediation has not been completed. In order to continue the mediation, the Parties, with the consent of the Mediator, wish to extend the time to conclude the mediation.

Therefore, pursuant to Paragraph 3(f) of the Mediation Referral Order, the Parties and the Mediator consent to, and request, the extension of the time for conclusion of the mediation in these Adversary Proceedings for a period of ninety (90) days, nunc pro tunc February 15, 2020, which computes to be May 15, 2020, subject to further extension by mutual consent of the Parties and
